15.5.2018 (Application Deadline) Call for Projects Switzerland-Russia, Program Starter & Innovation Seed Grants

The University of Geneva as Leading House for Russia and the CIS region is pleased to announce the launch of a Call for Projects.

This Call is designed to provide seed funding for projects between academic stakeholders in Switzerland and Russia. Two types of projects will be considered, covering all scientific disciplines:

- Program Starter Grants

- Innovation Seed Grants

For details of the Call and the online application form, please visit <http://unige-leadinghouse.ch/project-submission/>.

20.5.2018 (Application Deadline) Call for the exchange of young researchers (PhD students, young postdocs and master students in exceptional cases) between Japan and Switzerland

In its function as the Swiss Leading House for Asia, ETH Zurich is happy to announce the launch of a new call for the exchange of young researchers (PhD students, young postdocs and master students in exceptional cases) between Japan and Switzerland together with the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS). The grants will allow Swiss young scientists to spend 3-6 months of research in a Japanese partner laboratory or vice-versa Japanese scientists to perform 3-6 months of research in Switzerland; grants cover international travel and living allowance. The respective guidelines and application form can be found on our website: <https://www.ethz.ch/en/the-eth-zurich/global/funding-opportunities/swiss-bilateral-programmes/Mobility.html>. The call is open to all scientific disciplines including social sciences and humanities and to researchers from all Swiss universities, universities of applied sciences and research institutes.

Please observe that Japanese candidates will have to apply to JSPS.

14.-15.6.2018 Second LERU Gender Conference

UZH is proud to host the Second LERU Gender Conference on 14 - 15 June 2018.

The disproportional loss of female talent in academia is evident and systematic almost without exception across disciplines, faculties, universities, and countries. Join us for this exciting opportunity to think and talk to each other about why this happens, and ways to stop it.

2020 (Application Deadline) Leading House Asia: Call for Opportunity Grants

In its function as the Swiss Leading House for Asia, ETH Zurich is happy to announce the launch of a new call for Opportunity Grants. The grants will support activities of Swiss researchers linked to specific events or incidents in China (including Hong Kong and Taiwan), Japan, South Korea and member states of ASEAN. Examples of such events are on the one hand large public happenings, such as the Olympic Games, international or national Expos etc., or on the other hand major environmental or economic developments in the region. The goal of the opportunity grants is to provide non-bureaucratic support to bottom-up initiatives. These initiatives may aim at increasing the visibility of Swiss science and technology abroad or applying results to a concrete development or challenge.

The respective guidelines and application form can be found on our website: <http://bit.ly/opportunity-grants-asia>. The call is open to all scientific disciplines including social sciences and humanities and to researchers from all Swiss universities, universities of applied sciences and research institutes.

The call remains constantly open until 2020. Applications are evaluated on a rolling base.
